

Pleven and Burgas are two prominent cities in Bulgaria, each with its unique characteristics. Pleven, located in the northern part of the country, has a population of around 100,000 people. It covers an area of approximately 77 square kilometers and is known for its rich history, dating back to ancient times, with significant developments during the Ottoman period and the famous Siege of Pleven in 1877 during the Russo-Turkish War. The city's GDP per capita is around €10,000, reflecting its industrial and agricultural base.